Sanford | Saarinen Dining Chair Leather - Wood Legs

$1,132.00

Description

Sanford | Saarinen Dining Chair Leather - Wood Legs

Through his use of modern moldable materials, Saarinen was able to produce artful seating with a sculptural quality that stands as a testament to the mid-century design era. To that end, he collaborated and consulted with some of the most lauded furniture designers of the period.

Some design experts of the period say the lines and shapes of Saarinen's architectural structures were echoed in his furniture designs. With his Saarinen Dining Chair, the shape of his domed glass wall of MIT's Kresge Auditorium can be found in the chair's rounded back.

Features & Benefits

- Enveloping design and plump cushion seat offer hours of seated comfort.
- High-quality, single-piece molded polyurethane shell provides superior support and strength for a long-lasting product.
- Steam bent, solid wood legs for optimal stability and style.
- Modern lines and organic form allow the chair to meld across many styles including contemporary, minimalist, traditional, eclectic, mid-century and more.
- Placed in the waiting room or reception area this chair will command respect with its mid-century nuances and purposeful persona.

About the Designer

With his positive, forward-thinking outlook famed architect and modernist Eero Saarinen created iconic furniture designs to solve everyday problems during his highly lauded career from the early 1930s through early 60s. He sought to elevate one's existence through architecture and design with great award-winning success. Along with his acclaimed Tulip Table, Saarinen created many instantly-recognizable furniture designs from the Womb Chair to the Saarinen Executive Chair collection. His furniture has become a featured element in many modern homes today.

Special Care Instructions

To clean, avoid use of harsh acidic or abrasive cleaning solutions. For cleaning and maintenance of wood, use a soft dry cloth to dust if needed. For spills, use a damp soapy sponge or cloth. Consult the manufacturer warranty and cleaning instructions for care of leather upholstery.
